ELASTIC BINDER

Type CRM

The Bercomex CRM elastic binder can bind all kinds of flowers. Whether it binds tulips, roses or other flowers, the binder can be universally used.

Design

This machine can be adjusted for elastic string bindings varying from loose to extremely tight. The binder can be supplied either as a separate unit or as a part of a flower processing line or chrysanthemum harvester. Thanks to its minimal measurements it is now possible to build in two of these binders, where before there was room for only one.

Process

The binder needs little maintenance and is made of corrosion proof materials. The machine is light and almost noiseless. When servicing the machine only a few bolts need to be screwed off in order to be able to replace the knotting unit easily. Because of a special knotting technique there is no remaining elastic string. In case of a false binding the machine will not go out of order, but will continue right at the next stroke.

Extensive tests have shown this binder to be extremely reliable. Therefore Bercomex grants half a year – or 750.000 bindings – guarantee on the bindings of this machine (in case Bercomex elastic string is being used).
